What is a Development Permit (DP)?

A DP is a permit required for development within a Development Permit Area (DPA). It specifies how development must occur on a parcel of land

What is a Development Permit Area (DPA)?

A DPA is an area designated in an Official Community Plan (OCP). DPAs help the Regional District of Central Kootenay (RDCK)

- Protect the natural environment
- Protect development from hazardous conditions
- Protect farmland
- Guide the form and character of development

When do I need a DP?

All development or subdivision of land within a DPA requires a DP unless the activity is specifically exempted.

Conditions for exemption are listed in your electoral area's OCP. If your property is in a DPA, you must get your DP before your Building Permit or Subdivision can be approved

Is my property in a DPA?

The location, objectives and guidelines of DPAs are outlined within each Electoral Area's OCP

Who can apply for a DP?

Property owners or their authorized agent

How long does it take?

We do our best to ensure applications are dealt with promptly. Approvals typically take two to three months

How much does it cost?

DP application fees range from $500 to $2600.

- DP $500
- DP Amendment $500
- DP with Variance $600
- DP arising from Bylaw Contravention $2500
- DP with Variance arising from Bylaw Contravention $2600

Additional costs will be required for any documents or plans needed to complete the application, such as:

- legal surveys
- site, building or landscape plans
- reports by registered professionals

What documents do I need to apply?

- Application
- Certificate of title
- Non-financial charges registered on title
- Application Fee
- Site Disclosure Statement
- Proposal Summary
- Site Plan
- Landscape Plan
- Environmental Report (if applicable)
- Design Plan (if applicable)

This information package reflects the background and process when this document was created. It may be subject to changes at any time. For details of all regulations, and to determine whether the process has changed, please consult the relevant Bylaws, the Local Government Act and the Planning Department.

How do I get a DP?

1. Pre-Application Check in

We encourage you to check in with us before you apply. We can discuss your proposal's feasibility and review application requirements. At this time you can check if your application requires a report from a qualified registered professional

2. Submit Application

Complete and submit the DP application. Include required documents, plans and fees. Drop off your application in person or email it to plandept@rdck.bc.ca

3. Review and Referrals

We review the application and ensure all documents are included. Then we refer it to other groups for their feedback such as:

- Your area's Advisory Planning and Heritage Commission (APHC)
- Other RDCK departments
- Other agencies and parties like Interior Health, Provincial Ministries, adjacent Municipalities and First Nations

4. Notice of Development Sign

Staff will direct you to put a sign on your property that meets certain specifications to notify the community of the proposed DP

5. Issuance

A staff report will be presented to the General Manager of Development and Community Sustainability Services. If it is in accordance with the guidelines, they will issue it upon the condition of receiving securities

6. Security Deposit

The RDCK will take a security deposit for the approved works to be returned once the DP is satisfied

7. Registration

Once a permit is issued, a Notice of Permit gets registered on the property's land title, and is binding for current and future landowners

Please note that once a DP is issued, any development on the property must conform to the conditions stated in the DP
